

Pressalit Group is a Danish privately owned limited company. Management committee:

Kim Boyter (CEO) and Dan Boyter (COO).

Pressalit Group A/S includes two business areas: Pressalit - including the product brand SaniScan – and Pressalit Care. The two business areas are dealing with development, manufacture, marketing and sales of products for primarily bathroom designs. The business areas are pursuing individual objectives and are doing business with individual segments, but are sharing a living, fertile culture, based upon a common set of values:

We listen

- because at Pressalit we respect other people and their views. We enjoy recognition for our efforts - we believe in finding strength through being different.

We give

And receive in return. We share knowledge and experience. We believe in committed people. We believe in an interaction between you and the organisation. In a partnership that is always prepared to challenge the status quo.

We play

- because without play, there can be no development. Initially, all big ideas seem absurd. As Einstein said. That is why we give room to oddball thinking. We dare to take chances. We are bold. Also when it comes to life. We appreciate humour. And we have a zest for life.

We act

in a focused way. We are born innovators. We enjoy trying new things. By creating value for our customers - and our customer's customers. Through our actions, we are constantly renewing our credibility. We are focused. We recognise that we are assessed by our results (and not the processes). We are always prepared to do better where there is room for improvement.

Markets

Pressalit Group has its own subsidiaries in England, France, Germany, Sweden and Norway. The company is represented on more than 45 markets. Export share 80% (2009).

Production and production development

Pressalit manufactures toilet seats in app. 100 different models, mainly in duroplast - in app. 75 colour varieties. The product range also includes a wide assortment of wooden seats. The duroplast seats are - from A to Z - manufactured in the Pressalit factory (Isagervej 30, Ry). The raw material - urea-granulate - is pressed in heated moulding forms under great pressure and high temperature. The pressed objects (separate seats and covers) are ground and polished, then mounted with hinge links and buffers, and finally the completed Pressalit seat is ready for packaging. As for the wooden models, seats and covers are manufactured at sub-suppliers, the jobs for the Pressalit production crew being limited to mounting with hinge links and buffers + packaging.

The Pressalit Care products are made of components delivered from sub-suppliers. Assembling and packaging are carried out at Pressalit.

Common for all products - duroplast seats, wooden seats and Care products - is that the development of the products is in the hands of our own development departments - often in co-operation with external designers. When it comes to the care products, the development of new products always include co-operation with user and carer groups.

History

The company was founded in 1954 where the production of toilet seats was initiated in Ry under the name of Dansk Pressalit Industri A/S. In 1962 it was fundamentally decided to start working determinedly on the export markets. This work really got rolling in 1966 when design was introduced as a competitive parameter and the first "designer toilet seat" was put on the market: Pressalit Comfort, designed by Sigvard Bernadotte and Acton Bjørn.

Through-out the years, a number of other designers - Danish as well as foreign - have designed toilet seats for Pressalit. In 1976 the first Care products were introduced. The increase in turnover is reflected in the continual expansion of the production facilities - described by visitors as a production village. The factory area covers some 11,300 square metres. With the inauguration of "Maglehøj" - the sales, administration and information centre of Pressalit - in 1991 the entire company was finally united in Ry.
